

The Ten Commandments

1. "You shall have no oth - er god be - fore Me."
 2. Make no im - age of your God in heav - en
 3. You shall not mis - use God's name, it's ho - ly,
 4. Keep the Sab - bath day, God made it ho - ly,
 5. Hon - our Dad and Mom, your lov - ing par - ents
 6. You shall nev - er kill a friend or stran - ger,

Wor - ship on - ly God the Lord with all your heart.
 In the form of an - y - thing that you can see.
 Nev - er speak it in a joke, ir - rev - rent - ly,
 He gave six days to us all, our work to do.
 Love them al - ways and o - bey their ev - 'ry word.
 Not by looks or words or an - y hurt - ful blow.

With His strong right hand He'll guide you free - ly
 God sur - pass - es our i - mag - i - na - tion
 And don't take the name of "Chris - tian" light - ly,
 But the sev - enth is the Lord's, His on - ly,
 God gave them to teach you His com - mand - ments,
 Al - ways love your friends and love your neigh - bor:

And will give you strength to do your less - er part.
 To the works of man don't ev - er bow your knee.
 But be sure you're read - y to serve ear - nest - ly.
 To teach us to rest and find Him whol - ly true.
 But they on - ly can when all their words are heard.
 When you love your e - ne - my then peace you'll know.

7. Always faithful be unto the partner
God has chosen for you in His perfect plan.
Wait with patience till His time and hour,
Think about your work and leave it in His hand.

8. Do not take things that belong to others
Please respect what's someone else's property.
Be content with what you have, God honours
Those who give by giving blessing gen'rously.

9. Do not tell a lie against your neighbor:
Jesus was the truth, so we can also be,
When our every word fits to our actions
And our teaching is lived with integrity.

10. Do not covet what God has not given
He will give you all you need for where you are.
Only sadness comes when you are driven
To possess all that you see both near and far.

11. Now to keep all of these Ten Commandments
You will need the life of Christ deep in your heart;
And the Holy Spirit's constant presence
To make you a saint, for heaven set apart.
